Supplemental Special Education Services

The Texas Education Agency (TEA) is offering Supplemental Special Education Services (SSES) to parents of eligible students with significant and complex disabilities who have been impacted by COVID-19 school closures. SSES credits are distributed through online accounts that are used to obtain special educational resources, supplies, and services, such as additional speech therapy or other specific services through an online marketplace. SSES credits can amount up to $1,500 per student to be used to supplement what otherwise happens in school to help students continue to make educational progress. The SSES program has specific eligibility requirements. If you would like more information, please click the link below.
